Beata was born January 7, 1929 to Henry and Margareth (Frickenstein) Krienert in Sioux City, Iowa and raised on a farm near Pierce, Nebraska with her five younger sisters. She attended St. Mary's Catholic school in Osmond. After finishing school, Beata worked for neighboring families and met William Schlickbernd, the love of her life, at a dance, in 1947. They were married April 20, 1949 in Osmond. In 1953, they moved to Chadron with three children, and over the years, their family grew to include six daughters and six sons and lived in their big house on the corner of Chapin Street for over 40 years until Willie passed away in 2010. Beata moved to Madison, NE to live at Countryside Home in 2014.

In Chadron, Beata was a member of the St. Patrick's Catholic Church altar society, prayer chain, weekly prayer meeting, and the Charismatic Renewal movement. Outside of church, she was a founding member of an organic foods cooperative in the 1970s to bring affordable natural foods to Chadron. She was passionate about organic gardening, canning and making pickles, jams, and jellies. Most of all, Beata was legendary in Chadron for her homemade bread and rolls, and even taught an extension class at Chadron State College on bread baking. She was featured in a regional newspaper for her baking methods and recipes. She also enjoyed dancing, birdwatching, gardening, music, drawing, and was a voracious reader. She was fortunate to have the opportunity to travel internationally to Japan, Germany, Canada and throughout the country to visit her friends, relatives, children and grandchildren. Beata was a member of the Women's Aglow Ministry. Beata was preceded in death by her parents, her husband, William Schlickbernd, her son Stephen Schlickbernd, daughter-in-law Shelley Schlickbernd, son-in-law Brian Davenport, sisters Frances Hoffmann, Mary Dartman and Adela Zach. “ Grandma Bea was my sister's and my last Grandparent. I remember her telling me stories about the kids and their..shenanigans. I remember she always had something for me to do to help her around the kitchen, and the warm, fresh bread and butter. Her laugh always made me smile, too. I was always amazed at the sheer volume of things she could do to make that household run.

“ Back in the 70's, a few days before Christmas, time was running out and Mom had to get presents for us kids. On this particular day she was suffering from one of her migraines and it was windy and freezing cold outside but had to go regardless.

We only had one vehicle and my Dad had to use it for service calls so my Mom bundled up and walked downtown to shop. At the time that was A long walk from where we lived. She was gone for quite some time when I happened to look out the window and saw her walking up the street with her hands full of sacks, her face was red from the cold and the scarf was falling off her head. I know if my Mom gets cold wind in her ears it gives her migraines and she had one to begin with.

She came in the house half froze but glad to be home and reached for the Tylenol.

With a migraine and in freezing weather she walked carrying heavy bags all the way to make sure her kids had something for Christmas.

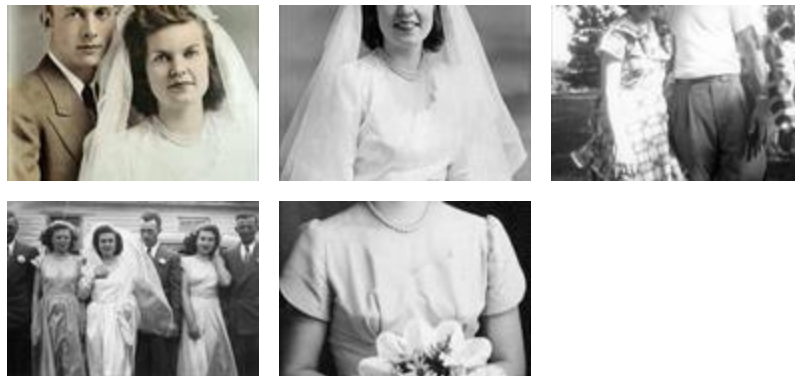

That's a mother's love. Love you Mama.

“ To the family of Beata Schlickbernd, So sorry to hear about Beata's passing. Accept our deepest sympathy as you mourn your loss. She will always be remembered for her faith, the best bread maker in the world, and for the love of her family. May your memories of her help you through this difficult time. Beata was a friend of my mother, Ida. As Cooper the genealogist of the family, would point out that they were both born in January, born on the same year, and both had 12 kids. Just know someone is praying for you , and keep praying for each other.

“ My mother was a very loving, intelligent woman who kept her house in order regardless of the wild pack of kids that kept it in a turmoil. She was a great cook, able to stretch a meal if a friend dropped by. She was always baking bread; the only time I saw her without flour on her hands and without her green checked apron on was when she went to church twice a week. She put the fear of God in us with just 7 words: " Wait till your Dad hears about this!" A beautiful, gracious, lady. I miss you, Mama.
