“ My deepest heartfelt condolences to Lisa and Jason and his brothers and all. I've known Duane since we played baseball against each other since we were 8 years old. I was thrilled to finally play softball with him in our middle to later years, as he was one of the classiest and most easy-going teammates ever, maybe it was because we both just liked to sit in our backyards, and listen to the click-click-click...sputter, sputter sputter of the lawn sprinkler. Anyway, our greatest memory in softball together, was coming all the way through the 63-team loser's bracket while playing 9 games in one day to finally beat the undefeated team twice for the District Championship, as Duane scored the winning run to come back and win 10-9 in double extra innings! He was so thrilled to score, that he kept running! Which was halfway up the backstop after crossing home plate! Only to be mobbed by us all at 3 in the morning after starting at 9 AM, the previous day! That 11-1 record thrilled us all, especially after being picked by the 'experts' to only go 1 and 2, in that tough District!

Anyway, Duane was the levelling effect on us all, kept us cool-headed, and determined. I loved his humility of always wanting to bat 2nd to last in the order, even though he had the explosive power to bat clean up! I loved the laid-back approach to his hitting style, bat on his shoulder, a little flick of his foot with his red bat, then blister a ball around 110 mph exit speed with a backspin to right-field to nearly take a would-be fielder's hand off!

He was just a neat and classy guy! I think Jason's picture of him in his tux looked like James Bond, or a cover guy for Gentlemen's Quarterly, he just had that neat old-fashioned look that stemmed from his deep and balanced humility.

And that's why there'll never be another one like him, for he even shared the same birthday as Israel, when it became a nation again. So sad to see him go, but at least he's now forever with the love of his life, for an eternity! No more pain or sorrow, just happiness! Hope he reserves a spot for me on the bench of Life, and maybe, I'll get to pitch him a few! Sincerely, his old ball-playing buddy, Joe Morris

“ Duane and I grew up together, from Sunday School through High School. We lost track of each other until I went to work at Menards in 2012. Duane introduced himself on that first day and we morning stocked together until the end of June when I had a heart attack. His dry humor and hard working style blended with mine and we had good times working together. Coincidentally, I lost my wife to cancer as well in 1988. He is and will be missed. The better it was, the more it hurts. Bon Voyage, Duane. See you on the other side.
