“ We will always remember Loren as a man with a big smile, a big handshake, and a big heart for others. When we visited him a couple months ago, he still had the same positive attitude. We enjoyed hearing the story of how he was only going to come to church one Sunday to get Virgil Schuetz off his back. But God tugged at Loren’s heart that morning and he gave his heart to Jesus. Life changed for him, and for the rest of his Sundays, as long as he was able, he faithfully worshipped at CBC. God was important to Loren and he often shared that with others. We look forward to seeing that smile and feeling that handshake again in heaven. May God bring comfort and encouragement to each of his family and friends.
